30 Yehia Haqqi's first short story was established in 1925.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Children's stories are popular among the young and the old because in them you can almost differentiate between the good and the bad people. A character like Snow White is good, whereas her stepmother is evil. Also in children's stories, justice always wins and evil loses. In another story, "The Wicked Witch" is defeated and the beautiful little girl goes home safely. That's why children find any other kind of stories unbelievable. They simply cannot understand how evil can go unpunished or good unrewarded. As they grow up, they realise that life is not that simple. People have both good and bad qualities, and justice does not always win. If a story does not take this into account, we may think of it as boring or childish. To make a reader a little sad is much better than to deceive him or her.

Answer the following questions:

31 What do children realise about life when they grow up?

32 In your opinion what are the best children's stories?

33 Why don't children believe stories where justice loses?

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

34 The underlined pronoun "them" refers to

(A) children

(B) people

(C) stories

(D) characters

35 In the passage children's stories are popular among the young and the old because you can always

- (A) find a good character (B) differentiate between the young and the old
(C) save a little girl (D) differentiate between the good and the bad

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

In ancient China, The governor announced a reward for the artist who would draw a masterpiece of art. The governor would place it at the door of his palace for a whole year. If no one could find a fault with it, the artist would be rewarded. But if any defect was discovered, the work would be returned and no reward would be given. One day a man brought a painting of an ear of corn and a bird sitting on it. A thousand people saw it and thought it was perfect. On the last day of the year, an old man came and asked, "How can a bird sit on an ear of corn without making it bend?" The observation was right and the artist wasn't rewarded. To receive such a prize, an artist had to be careful with every detail of his work.

Answer the following questions:

36 How long did an artist have to wait to get a reward?

37 Why was the artist in the story not rewarded?

38 What does the underlined word "it" refer to?

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

39 In ancient China, to receive a reward, an artist had to draw

- (A) a painting of a bird (B) an ear of corn
(C) a perfect work of art (D) a beautiful work of art

40 The word "masterpiece" in the passage means

- (A) unique (B) faulty

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

For centuries, people lived with and respected the all powerful crocodile. Those snapping jaws and lethal teeth frightened all attackers away, whether human or animal. People were also fascinated by their characteristic calls, their beauty and their intelligence. Unfortunately, it was their beautiful skin which put them under threat. When explorers realized how valuable crocodile skin was, everything changed. Hunters risked their lives and sometimes lost them in order to satisfy the world's demand for crocodile skin.

The crocodiles' homes began to disappear as towns and industries were developed on the land near swamps and rivers. Luckily for the crocodiles, people realized that a world without them would just not be the same, and now they have been officially declared and endangered species. In some parts of the world, there are now parks with industrial rivers where crocodiles can live safely to bring up their young, with strict laws to protect them.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Although schoolchildren often complain that school is boring and a waste of time, I think this is an exaggeration. In my point of view, the majority of the things we are taught at school are useful to us in many ways.

In the first place, school gives you general knowledge which helps in your everyday life. My own experience has shown me that knowledge of subjects such as Geography and History, for instance, helps to understand what is happening in the world around us. Without this "background" knowledge, the information in newspaper reports, TV documentaries and so on would mean very little to me.

Furthermore, some school subjects help you develop an interest in hobbies like P.E and scientific research. In my case, I like to spend my free time surfing the internet. I would have found this much harder to do if I hadn't computer studies at school.

Answer the following questions:

36 according to the passage how far is background knowledge important?

37 Why do some pupils complain about school?

38 How useful is studying Geography and History as you understood from the passage?

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Today, many people use natural ways to cure illnesses that don't cause side effects; "acupuncture" and "biofeedback" are two popular methods. Doctors have been using acupuncture in China for over two thousand years. It involves pushing needles into the skin at special points around the body. Ancient Chinese philosophers believed that they were connected to different oranges and could cure diseases.

Today, "acupuncture" is used in many countries, and studies show that it works especially for headaches, backaches and smoking. Since the 1950s, doctors in China have also been using acupuncture in major operations. Patients are awake and know what is happening in the operation but they feel little or no pain. Scientists think that the needles make the body produce a chemical called "endorphin" that helps to reduce the feeling of pain.

Another natural way to cure illnesses is " biofeedback". It uses technology to help people control their internal organs. For example, If a person has problems with sleeping, he/she is connected to a special computer that shows the activity of the brain. The person then is asked to do some mental exercises to relax. When the brain activity falls and the person is relaxed, the computer makes a noise. Slowly, the person learns what type of mental exercises can help him/her to reduce the activity of the brain.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Art does not just refer to paintings in a museum. There are many different kinds of art. Advertising and architecture are both kinds of art too, in my opinion, and they have an effect on our lives. Even people who are not interested in going to art galleries are still affected by these other kinds of art.

Posters and other forms of advertisements are all around us, especially in towns and cities, and we cannot help seeing them. If they are successful advertisements, they make us want to buy certain products. In addition adverts often make the streets more colorful and attractive. We can say that different forms of art are all around us and have a big effect on our everyday life.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Many people believe the legend that there is a curse on the tomb of Tutankhamun. The tomb of Tutankhamun was discovered by Lord Carnavon in 1920. He died from blood poisoning three month after opening the tomb. No one would have thought his death had anything to do with the tomb if it had not been for a letter from the writer Marie Corelli to the New York World newspaper. In this letter she said that she owned a book which told the story of the curse. Not long after the death of Lord Carnavon, an American who said he had caught a cold while visiting the tomb, also died.

As time passed, the list of people who had been punished by the curse grew and for many people there was too much evidence for the story to be ignored. However, a number of facts have been forgotten.

In 1982 an American policeman who had a heart attack claimed it was because he had spent time looking after the Tutankhamun Exhibition in San Francisco. He was not believed when it was discovered that another man who had actually slept in the tomb while guarding it for seven years was not only alive but in good health. Thus the idea of the curse was proved to be a fallacy.

Answer the following questions:

31 What made the people think that Lord Carnavon's death was caused by the curse of Tutankhamun?

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Call me old-fashioned. Call me old. Call me what you want, but I refuse to become part of this new internet world. I don't have a computer at home or at the office. Actually, I stopped going to an office 35 years ago, when all communications were done in a relaxed manner, with a pen, a typewriter, or, if the matter was of world-shaking importance, over the telephone. Tell me what you think of the following ad that appeared the other day in the newspaper. It was for a cure for cancer and this is what it said: "Awareness is the key. Visit spfulford.com at the awareness site." There was no address or telephone number for the site. So what do unfortunate people without a computer do if they are seeking a cure for their illness? There are, I am told, certain advantages in having access to the latest marvel of the age, the Internet. There are activities for Internet users besides having fun. They can pay bills, order groceries, or discuss illnesses with their doctor. In the future the Internet may develop "consciousness." In other words, the Internet will be able to think, have feelings, and may well be able to act on its own. If this is right, I may change my attitude about computers. As I grow older each day, I would like a gadget that not only thinks for me but also accepts responsibility for all my mistakes.

Answer the following questions:

36 What did the writer think was wrong with the Internet ad for a cancer cure?

37 What are three things that people do on the Internet?

38 3- What would the writer like a computer to do for him?

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

- 39 The Internet may develop "consciousness" means it will be able to
 (A) cure diseases. (B) take responsibility for our action.
 (C) think, have feelings and act on its own. (D) think for the writer
- 40 When the writer was younger, people communicated with each other by
 (A) advertising on the web. (B) writing letters or talking on the phone.
 (C) communicating with computers. (D) using mobile telephones.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Computers are used very extensively in the world today. Nearly everything we do in the modern world is helped or even controlled by computers. Computers are far more efficient than human beings and they have very good memories and can store huge amounts of information. In addition to that, computers can do calculations in a fraction of time and can do many of the things we do, but faster and more accurately. That is why computers are widely used nowadays.

Computers are used in many fields such as the field of health, the field of crime and in the field of arts and science. In the field of health, we use computers a lot in medicine nowadays. With the help of computers, doctors can keep patients' records on a computer and any information about the patient can be obtained quickly and easily, besides working out what is wrong with a patient or the best treatment to give him or her.

In the field of crime, with the new national police computer, we are now able to find out details of car ownership and driving licences in no time.

In the field of science, computers are generally associated with the world of science and maths, history and literature. You tell the computer which subject you are interested in and it supplies you with information in seconds.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Joan of Arc was a young brave girl born in a small village in France. Her only ambition was to help her country, which was at war with England. She dreamt of setting her country free from the hands of the English. She went to Charles, the king of France and told him that she had been sent by God to save France. The king believed her story and permitted her to lead the French army against the enemy. She went from town to town and from village to village asking people to join the army against the British enemy.

Joan of Arc led the attack. Fort after fort fell to the French. The English army retreated and was about to lose the battle. Suddenly, Joan fell down to the ground wounded. The fight went on but the wounded brave girl did not give up.

Unfortunately, she fell into the hands of the English. The English believed that she worked for the devil and she should be burnt to death. After five hundred years, the world was told that Joan was a saint who took her orders from God. Every year the French people celebrate her birth and her death and remember her as a great national heroine who sacrificed herself for the sake of her country. Tourists never forget to visit her village and her grave whenever they go to France.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Can you imagine anything worse than returning home to find that burglars have broken into your house? Unfortunately, this happens to about one million people in Britain annually. However, if you want better protection against burglars, there are several things you can do. To improve security, check all the locks on your doors and windows. The installation of lighting all around the house will make sure a burglar is unable to hide in the shadows. An alarm system is another good preventative measure you can take.

Starting a neighbourhood watch group is also a very effective way to prevent crime in your area. Since most burglaries take place when people are away on holiday, this is when your neighbours' help is most valuable. Ask them to collect your mail, open and close your curtains every day, switch your lights on and off and even mow your lawn to make your house look occupied.

Answer the following questions:

31 According to the text, when are burglars able to hide in homes?

32 When do most burglaries usually occur?

33 How many burglaries happen in Britain annually?

(C) policemen (D) house owners

- 35 A neighbourhood watch group can help to crime in your area.
- (A) avoid (B) add
(C) develop (D) repeat

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

My advice about learning to drive would be to have proper lessons from a qualified instructor and never to let a friend or family member try to teach you. It's a guaranteed way to spoil a good relationship. Every Sunday, when the traffic was quieter, my father would pick me up and take me for a drive along the streets of our hometown and give me a lecture on how to drive, explaining everything he was doing and why. Eventually it was my turn to have a go. My dad was so nervous that he panicked before I'd even started up the engine. He used to shout at the slightest mistake, and when the lesson was finally over he'd come home and have a large glass of whisky to calm down.

Answer the following questions:

- 36 According to the writer, who is the best person to teach you how to drive?

37 What do you think about the writer's father?

38 Why did the father choose Sunday for the lesson?

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

- 39 The underlined word he refers to
- (A) the writer. (B) the instructor
- (C) the writer's father (D) the writer's friend.

40 The writer's father used to teach him how to drive-.

- (A) once a week (B) every Monday
(C) twice a month (D) every day

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

The sinking of the great passenger ship "Titanic" about seventy years ago is nearly forgotten. A small number of passengers were actually saved; those who are still alive today can be counted on the fingers of one hand.

Then you will easily understand why I have been asked to write about that sad story. The Titanic, the largest ship in the world, was thought by many people at that time to be unsinkable. Yet, when it hit an iceberg in thick fog in the North Atlantic Ocean, it actually disappeared in less than twenty minutes, taking nearly fifteen hundred people to the bottom.

My own life was saved by my youth. Being only a boy of fourteen, I was one of those lucky women and children who were allowed to get away first from the sinking ship. The other passengers threw themselves into deep water and tried to mount our boat with the result that it turned over. Many people drowned, but I was strong enough to swim for three hours in the icy water before a passing ship picked me up.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

A young man went to a car showroom. He was wearing rubber boots and a dirty jacket. He needed a haircut badly and was unshaven. The young man examined an expensive car carefully and then turned to speak to the salesman. 'How much does this car cost?' He asked. "One thousand two hundred and eighteen pounds," the salesman said. "I'll have sixteen of them," the young man said. The salesman smiled. He found it hard to be polite. "You are joking, of course. I'm afraid we can't help you. This car is not for sale," he said. The salesman showed his customer the door and the young man left the shop without a word.

He went to a showroom on the other side of the street and asked for sixteen cars. The second salesman was polite and helpful. The young man took a bundle of notes out of his pocket and paid for the cars in cash. He explained that the cars were for himself and his fifteen colleagues. He said that he and his colleagues worked on a Norwegian fishing-boat. "We have all earned a lot of money this season," the man said, "and we want to buy cars.". Naturally, the second salesman was delighted.

Answer the following questions:

- 36 Put a suitable title for the passage.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

The main reason why so many young people start smoking is that they see adults smoking. They think that it is a “grown-up” thing to do. They smoke in order to look older and impress others, and also because they don’t really believe that smoking will cause any harm. They don’t want to believe others about the dangers of smoking.

Smoking may cause cancer, lungs and heart diseases. Nicotine is addictive. It makes the heart beat faster and makes the arteries contract. Tar and carbon monoxide may cause cancer. If you are a regular smoker, you will lose ten minutes of your life for every cigarette you smoke.

Anti-smoking societies aim at discouraging people from smoking. They try to make people give up this bad and harmful habit. These societies are doing their best to limit cigarette advertising in the newspapers and on television

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Did you think of money? Is it important to us or not? Aristotle, the Greek philosopher, summed up the four chief qualities of money some 2000 years ago. It must be lasting and easy to recognize, to divide, and to carry. This means it must be, "durable, distinct, divisible and portable". When we think of money today, we picture it either as round, flat pieces of metal, which we call coins or as printed paper notes. However, there are still parts of the world today where coins and notes are of no use. They will buy nothing, and a traveller might starve if he had none of the particular local "money" to exchange for food.

Among isolated people, who are not often reached by traders from outside, commerce usually means barter. This is a direct exchange for pots, baskets, or other manufactured goods. For this kind of trading, money is not needed, but there is often something that everyone wants and everybody can use, such as salt to flavour food, shells for ornaments, or iron and copper to make into tools and vessels. These things: salt, shells or metals are still used as money in some primitive parts of the world today.

I have a friend called Kamal who always pretends to know everything. Whenever a name is mentioned, he says he knows the person who owns that name. I believed Kamal until one day I found out he was a big liar. Once, he visited me when I was sitting with my cousin Mr Sami, who happened to be a well famous writer. Before I introduced my friend to Mr Sami Salim, his eyes fell on one of the books, which was lying on the table. Kamal at once said that the author of the book was one of his relatives, and started telling stories about the adventures they had together. He also said that Mr Sami Salim never wrote a book before discussing its ideas with him. Sami kept on listening with interest. He asked my friend Kamal if he could recognize Mr Sami Salim if he saw him. My friend assured him that he would. With a loud laugh, Mr Sami introduced himself to my friend who was so ashamed that he immediately left the house. Since that day, my friend Kamal does his best to avoid me, and when he meets me, he never says that he knows anything or anybody.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

You would like to take good photographs of real-life situations but you have few ideas for pictures. I suggest you look around you. The everyday world is full of scenes being played by an ever-changing group of actors. The main requirement for any photographer has little to do with technical matters. You must develop an awareness of the world around you, and you should learn to notice when a situation may develop to a point where you will be able to take a good picture.

Not every shot is going to be a winner. If you look at the works of even the best photographers, you will notice that dozens of pictures have to be taken only because they lead up to the successful shot of a situation that the photographer has obviously been observing through the lens. You may find that you have taken one or two pictures after the right moment has passed

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

After inventing dynamite, Swedish-born Alfred Nobel became a very rich man. However, he foresaw its universally destructive powers too late. Nobel preferred not to be remembered as the inventor of dynamite, so in 1895, just two weeks before his death, he created a fund to be used for awarding prizes to people who had made worthwhile contributions to mankind. Originally, there were five awards: literature, physics, chemistry, medicine, and peace. Economics was added in 1968, just sixty-seven years after the first awards ceremony.

Nobel's original legacy of nine million dollars was invested, and the interest on this sum is used for the awards, which vary from $30,000 to $ 125,000.

Every year on December 10, the anniversary of Nobel's death, the awards (gold medal, illuminated diploma, and money) are presented to the winners. Sometimes politics plays an important role in the judges' decisions. Americans have won many science awards, but relatively few literature prizes.

No awards were presented from 1940 to 1942 at the beginning of World War II. Some people have won two prizes, but this is rare; others have shared their prizes

Answer the following questions:

31 Why was the Nobel Prize established?

32 In how many fields are prizes awarded?

33 Why wasn't anyone awarded the Nobel Prize from 1940 to 1942?

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

- 34 Americans have achieved the most awards in
- (A) literature (B) economics
(C) peace (D) science

- 35 can play an important role in selecting the winners.

(C) Science (D) Politics

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

For homework, Youssef's class had to study traffic. Their teacher told them to stand outside their houses for one hour that evening and count the vehicles they saw.

Youssef's friends lived in the town, but Youssef's father was a farmer, so he lived in the country. For one hour, Youssef stood outside his house, but very few vehicles went past. After fifteen minutes, he saw a bicycle. After another thirty minutes, a car drove past. Finally Youssef saw his neighbour driving a tractor.

The next day, the teacher asked the students what they had seen. Ahmed – who lived in the town – had seen a hundred cars, six buses and twenty lorries. The other students had seen about the same. When the teacher asked Youssef, he didn't want to answer. Then he said, "I saw a tractor, one car and a bicycle." All the other students laughed, but the teacher smiled and said, "You live in the best place, Youssef. Think of all the pollution the other students breathe every day. Think how nice it is to live in a place with clean air."

Answer the following questions:

- 36 Where did the students have to stand to count the vehicles they saw?

- 37 Why didn't Youssef want to answer the teacher's question?
