Eat healthy food and have a healthy body. Now , we know that there is also healthy food for your brain. Eat healthy food and have a healthy mind. We all know how chocolate can change our mood. However, new research clearly shows the link between diet and mental health.

There has been a campaign to improve school meals. A head teacher of a school banned junk food and started serving healthy food. this research shows that the students' behaviour in class has been a lot better. They became calmer and they learn and concentrate more.

A mental health foundation (M.H.F.) has started a campaign ' Feeding Minds' to publicise its own research. This research shows that our diets have changed a lot and the level of mental illness has increases, unhealthy diet can cause depression and insomnia.

The last part of the research concerns the Mediterranean diet. Scientists knew that this diet (fruit, vegetables, fish and olive oil) helps you live longer. It also prevents a serious mental illness ' Alzheimer' that affects the elderly.

So, what does this research suggest you eat? To improve your memory, eat salmon. To improve your concentration, eat vegetables .To fight insomnia, eat nuts. If depression is a problem, eat brown rice if you worry about your later years , cook with olive oil . Whatever you do, use your brain and shop for your mental health.
