Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

There seems to be a fashion or a move back to a simpler way of life. More and more young couples are leaving well-paid jobs in London and other cities to go and live in remote parts of the British Isles جزر where they grow their own food, make their own clothes, and never watch TV. The Tristan Islanders were evacuated from Tristan da Cunha because there was a volcanic eruption that caused a lot of destruction. Their life on their island had been simple and uncomplicated.

The Tristan Islanders were shocked when they came to Britain. For the first time in their lives, they saw motor cars, buses, cinemas, theatres and television. They missed their simple clothes, simple food and simple truths.

On Tristan, they were free from crime. Life was quieter and slower. In England, a man is judged by what he owns, but on Tristan a man is judged by what he is and what he can do. Everything has a price in England. The people of Tristan da Cunha believe that happiness lies in personal relationships. They are a family where divorce is almost unknown, where quarrels are rare and where the old have an honoured place. There is no favouritism because no man or group of men is given special favours. The Tristan Islanders returned home. Some of them were unable to settle and came back to Britain again. But they have never been happy in Twentieth-Century Britain either.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Camping was once considered a poor way of spending a holiday; OK for boy scouts or those students who have not enough money. But nowadays it has so much to offer. You enjoy absolute freedom. For a small sum, you can enjoy the comfort which few hotels could provide. Modern camping sites are well equipped with hot and cold running water and even shops. Low-cost holidays make camping attractive. But above all, you enjoy mobility. If you don't like a place or if it's too crowded, you can simply get up and go.

On the contrary, you can stay as you like. Camping provides you with a really change for everyday living. You get up earlier, go to bed earlier and develop a hearty appetite. It's exciting to arrive at a campsite, put up your tent and start getting a meal ready. You are active all the time and you are always close to nature. Moreover, you have the opportunity to meet people and share your pleasures with them. People are friendly when they are relaxed. Camping gives you a chance to adapt to a completely different way of life. This is the essence of relaxation and real enjoyment. It is a pleasure to feel that you live in a new society, enjoying the peace of the countryside and the quiet of the woods or mountains, but above all your life here is very different from the place where you used to live.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions

Today, bicycles are elegantly simple machines that are common around the world. Many people ride bicycles for recreation للترفيه , whereas others use them as a means of transportation. The first bicycle was invented in Germany in 1818 by Baron Karl. Because it was made of wood, it wasn't very durable طويلة المدى nor did it have pedals. Riders moved it by pushing their feet against the ground. In 1839, Kirkpatrick Macmillan, a Scottish blacksmith, invented a much better bicycle. He used foot-operated cranks سواعد محركة, similar to pedals, so his bicycle could be ridden at a quick pace. Although Macmillan's bicycles could be ridden easily, they were never produced in large numbers. In 1861, Frenchman Pierre Michaux and his brother Ernest invented a bicycle with an improved crank mechanism. After a few years, the Michaux family was making hundreds of the machines annually, mostly for fun-seeking young people.

Ten years later, James Starley, an English inventor, made several innovations that revolutionised bicycle design. He made the front wheel many times larger than the back wheel, put a gear on the pedals to make the bicycle more efficient, and lightened the wheels by using wire spokes. It wasn't until 1874 that the first truly modern bicycle appeared on the scene. Invented by another Englishman, H. J. Lawson, the safety bicycle would look familiar to today's cyclists. With the improvements provided by Lawson, bicycles became extremely popular and useful for transportation. Today, they are built, used, and enjoyed all over the world.

A) Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:
